Entrepreneurship PiickOne Animation

November, 2018 - Present Occupation

PiickOne represents my online presence as a digital artist and animator. My expertise spans across various creative fields, including commission and freelance projects, story development, coding, and the ongoing production of an animation series.

Working as a freelance artist has allowed me to refine my marketing techniques and build personal sales experience. Through my small business, I've developed strong client relations, managed projects efficiently, and delivered high-quality digital artwork tailored to each client's vision. I also work with a wide range of digital tools and platforms. From industry-standard software for animation and illustration to web development skills for coding and maintaining my online presence
